2 Or 3 Things I Know About Him

A documentary film by Malte Ludin

Director's father, Hanns Ludin, in 1935

NEW ENGLAND PREMIERE

Special Guest @ both screenings:

Director Malte Ludin

Germany, 2005, 89 min, 35mm, German w/ English subtitles

Family drama and historical truth collide in this film about the painful legacy cast by Hanns Ludin, a prominent Nazi executed for war crimes in 1947. In this astonishing documentary, Ludin's son, filmmaker Malte, breaks 60 years of silence and repression, investigating his Father's dark deeds and meeting with his victims, and interviewing his still-denying sisters.

NEW YORKER

"[Ludin] courageously probes the effect of this legacy, and the revelations are shocking ...[he] doesn't shrink from debating heatedly with his sisters onscreen or exposing them to their children as liars."

The New York Times

"If it tells, in Mr. Ludin's words, 'a typical German story,' the movie also offers an unusually matter-of-fact picture of the private and public effects of ordinary evil."

FILM JOURNAL INTERNATIONAL

"This exceptional documentary...is an illumination of convenient rationalization and denial on a grand scale....A must-see."
